ABOUT

JJJJustin is Justin McKinley, a Boulder-based visual designer working at the intersection of brand, product, and crafted content. Trained eye for how ideas take shape across systems, objects, and experiences, informed by a background in digital and traditional ad agencies, in-house teams, and collaborations with writers, industrial designers, engineers, founders, and creative directors. Approaches independent and collaborative work with the same mindset, staying engaged, following ideas through, and allowing the process to inform the outcome.

SKILLS & ABILITIES

- 15+ years working as a designer across branding, product, and digital design, in agencies, in-house teams, and independent practice.
- High-level fluency across the full Adobe Suite (Illustrator, Photoshop, InDesign, Premiere) and Figma for product and interface design.
- Experience directing, shooting, and editing video content, from concept through final cut.
- Comfortable moving between branding, product design, and physical building/fabrication, translating ideas into tangible outcomes.
- Extensive experience collaborating directly with engineers and entrepreneurs, taking ideas from concept to shipped product.
- A process-driven approach that treats independent and collaborative work with the same rigor and follow-through.
